Dear

How are you? It's been ages since I last wrote to you. Sorry about that!

Thanks for the postcard you sent me. It looks like you had a great time in Devon. I can't believe you went canoeing in the sea. I thought you hated water!!!

We just stayed at home this summer which was pretty boring. Cambridge carnival was good though and I loved the fireworks.

I am not enjoying school at the moment. Some of my friends are being horrible to me. They are not doing anything to me in school, so there's no point telling anyone. They started a WhatsApp group called "10 Reasons to hate Sam Smith". Everyone's posting stuff about me on the wall. Someone even put a picture on Insta which had a picture of my head on a donkey's body and I've seen some SnapChat messages as well. And no one will add me on online games now.

A few weeks ago someone added me on Instagram and started saying that nobody likes me. It's ok though, whenever I see them online I just log off. That's why I haven't spoken to you for a while. I think they have my mobile number too, because I keep getting text messages saying the same thing, but I don't know whose number it is.

What do you think I should do?

Sam
